

Consultation Statement

Kitcher Risk Solutions acknowledges that consultation gives people the opportunity to participate and share information about work. This is especially important for work health and safety matters. Through talking about safety, we become more aware of hazards in the workplace and workers can provide suggestions about how the work could be done safely.

As a micro business with a workforce of one, our consultation focus is external with clients, sub-contractors and others.

Kitcher Risk Solutions will consult, cooperate and coordinate with each interfacing employer, business or PCBU and any workers of that other duty holder whose health and safety is likely to be effected as a result of the interface between parties.

Responsibilities

The Director will consult while:

- undertaking risk management activities
- proposing changes that may affect the health and safety of others
- making decisions about any work health and safety procedures
- establishing interface control and management arrangements with another duty holder
- assessing the adequacy of facilities for the welfare of workers

The Director will establish consultation arrangements at the time of employing any workers to the business. This policy must be amended at that time.
